

New (9/2009) policy regarding homework requests:

If a student is out of school due to illness, the student or their parent should email the student's teachers to request work. The email to teachers should include an expected date of return as well as some information about the student's ability to complete work at home, given their medical condition. Work can be sent to the student via email or teachers can deliver the work to the Counseling Center where a folder will be kept so that parents can pick up work from the Counseling Center.

If a student is suspended from school, the Counseling Center will submit the homework request to the teachers on behalf of the student.
